

VISION

values of humanity with little under its hood.¹ As we discover our Divinity, we see it to be an automatic and self-fulfilling system of success, understanding and knowing. Once we usefully harness our habitual loop and feedback system, we begin to resonate with the trees melding and feeding with the sky, planets spawning from central suns and a cosmic smile that is our knowing in all of its totality. Our newfound momentum becomes our new plateau and the next step in our evolution as we review and plot our next experience, all the while climbing Dr. Hawkins' Map of Consciousness. We begin to wonder what might lie beyond 1,000.

We swarm as individuals aligned to the Light. Some first and then others, for at some point it is perceived as safe to make that final journey inward and upward. We accept that we are able to become more, and, where we once refused to step and then gingerly stepped, we gravitate with the enthusiasm of young children, for we have become young again as we lay at our side values and perceptions that no longer serve us. We become wide-eyed at the possibilities as we accept our potential as something we innately know so well. We see that we are coming home bigger than when we began our trip into descendency, alive with the awareness that we are becoming more and renewed in our true connection with Source. We master Freewill² and we master intentionality as we come to have dominion over our affairs. We become more.

First a few and then more, and eventually the last make that fateful realization that resistance to our true nature in no way serves us. We become what Innate Intelligence has always been telling us is our outcome – a spiritually alert, alive and awake species on Earth. We become more. Gaia has birthed a cosmic outcome in free will, exceeding anything that the plant, animal, mineral kingdoms or nature could ever produce on its own.

We see the order of creation for which we finally take our rightful place. We meld with transparency into a world of love and peace and order that knows no bounds. We become more. We become expressions
